WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW...

You will find a table below each drier description. This will contain relevant information for your reference, which you may find important. Below the table, you may also find some extra notes. Please see below for a full description of the table contents.

INLET: Type of inlet where the refrigerant enters the Drier.
OUTLET: Type of outlet where the refrigerant exits the Drier.
H MM: Total height of the Drier in millimetres.
D MM: Total diameter of the Drier in millimetres.

BASIC TYPES - DRIERS

Receiver driers are used in standard thermostatic expansion valve (TX valve) systems and are situated between the condenser and the TX valve at the evaporator.

Note that all upright and some in-line type receiver-driers have liquid pick-up tubes. Some in-line driers do not have pick-up tubes and are designed to be mounted vertically. Correct installation to ensure liquid refrigerant flow to the TX valve is critical.

PLEASE NOTE:
Correct flow direction and mounting position are essential on all driers; check before installation.

BASIC TYPES - TYPICAL ACCUMULATORS

Accumulators are used in orifice tube systems. They are usually much larger than receiver-driers, as they act as a catchment reservoir to ensure that no liquid refrigerant reaches the compressor.

Accumulators are installed between the evaporator and the compressor. Generally, accumulators are not full flow filters. Some simply have desiccant bags.

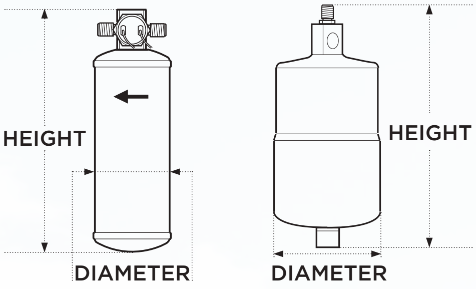
DRIER MEASUREMENT

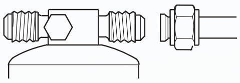
Receiver Driers are measured by overall height and the diameter of the barrel.

Height - The height of a drier is the overall height, including any connections, switch ports, access ports, and any other fittings, but does not include mounting brackets.

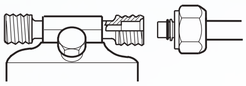
Diameter - The diameter is the diameter of the barrel, or reservoir. itself. It is not taken at the end caps or welds, and does not include any brackets or fittings. In the case of a "stepped" barrel, the measurement is taken at the larger diameter.



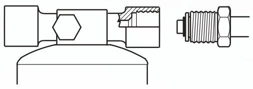
DRIER FITTINGS



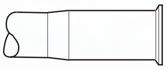
Male flare fitting (MF) connects to female flare fitting (FF).



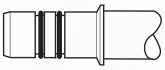
Male insert o-ring fitting (MIOR) connects to female o-ring fitting (FOR).



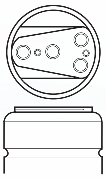
Female o-ring fitting (FOR). Connects to male o-ring fitting (MOR), not to mior like a normal female o-ring hose fitting.



Female springlock fitting (FS) connects to male springlock fitting (MS).



Male springlock fitting (MS) connects to female springlock fitting (FS).



Typical 'Pad' type driers. Some pad driers include provision for switches and access ports.
